First language please, second it came to me as there was a dispute. You are proposing to send it to a law firm yet stating we shouldn't have been involved in the matter. And what liability are you referring to, indemnity insurance of law firms, please check if they have such a doc to protect you. Anyhow the matter came to me again today and I shared my concern with the senior management. However if this is the CEO's decision, this should be it.

Who sent you the matter? A team is already assigned. We need to stop this ping pong. and as far as the language is concerned, if you all would have settled this, we wouldn't be in this place. so no more delays just because we feel certain way about it. We have 14 days to get all the paperwork. If it slips because everyone has a certain feeling about it, they will be all held liable. And I am not joking.
